Ai2 is actively working on technologies to help with scientific research, data analysis, and ultimately assist scientists in making novel discoveries. Check out our recent research and ...

Asta resources includes the first production-grade set of tools that let agents perform scientific research tasks, with an evaluation mode that enables fair, reproducible evaluation.

Ai2, a non-profit research institute founded by Paul Allen, is committed to breakthrough AI to solve the world's biggest problems.

Research Papers Explore a selection of our published work on a variety of key research challenges in AI.

Find papers Quickly and precisely surfaces hard-to-find scientific research papers. Asta offers an AI-powered literature search system--like Google Scholar on steroids.

Explore the Asta ecosystem--AI agents for research, rigorous benchmarks, and resources to build and test AI for scientific applications.

This research area explores a variety of novel interfaces for humans that maximize the helpfulness of AI when engaging with scientific literature, supporting better access, rapid and ...

Our AI research turns planetary data into action--deeper climate science, stronger agriculture and food security, proactive wildfire management, and lasting protection for wildlife and ecosystems.

Scientific research is only getting more complex. Scientists must navigate an ever-expanding body of literature, run experiments, analyze data, and iterate quickly--often while ...
